THE SPLENDOR OF CORK

WE Cork is the ultimate flooring material—distinct, sophisticated and luxurious, yet extremely durable and resilient. Millions of tiny, enclosed air cells give cork it’s unique characteristics. It’s comfortable and warm under foot, quiet, moisture-resistant, hypoallergenic and antistatic by nature. Above all, cork is strong and lasting.

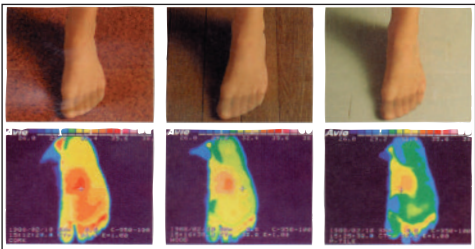

GO GREEN

Cork is a natural, environmentally-friendly, rapidly renewable resource. The bark of the cork oak tree regenerates every 9 years...making it an ideal choice for today and for our future. No trees are lost or damaged in the harvesting process; 95 to 100 % of the cork content in all WE Cork products are from pre-consumer recycled material.

THE CORK STORY

Cork is the bark of an oak tree known as Quercus Suber, which grows along the Mediterranean Sea. For its distinctive features, cork has been used throughout history for fishing floats, bottle stoppers, and soles of shoes. It is a completely renewable resource, regenerating itself after repeated harvest. Cork has remarkable characteristics unmatched by any other flooring material.

One cubic inch of cork contains more than 200 million completely enclosed air cells. This unique structure gives cork the attributes of resilience and durability, thermal and acoustic insulation, moisture resistance, and it is hypoallergenic. Cork flooring is comfortable, quiet and warm underfoot. Best of all, cork is beautiful, easy to care for and 100 % natural – making it an ideal flooring choice for any room.

Beautiful. Durable. Renewable. Cork Flooring.
